

OWL AT HOME SONG BOOK

COSY AT HOME

Cosy at home

I'm so cosy at home

With my stove and my chair and my lamp and my cup of tea

Things are rosy at home

So cosy at home

That I don't want to roam from my home

No, not me

Cosy at home

I'm so cosy at home

With my stove and my chair and my lamp and my mice and my mousetrap and my kettle and my cup of tea

Cosy at home

I'm so cosy at home

With my stove and my chair and my lamp and my mice and my mousetrap and my kettle and my periscope and my stepladder and my pegs and my periscope and my dustbuster and my logs and my milk crate and my cup of tea

Cosy at home

I'm so cosy at home

With my stove and my chair and my lamp and my mallet.... Mallet?
It's not there.

IN THE MIDDLE

When I am here I am not there

When I am there I am not here:

I can't be over here and over there

I can't be over there and over here

It's impossible

I can only be nowhere in particular

It's undoubtable

I can only be somewhere in the stratosphere

Haaaaa!

In the middle

Back in the middle

In the middle in the middle with me

It's a riddle, back in the middle

In the middle in the middle with me

EVERYTHING CRACKS AND BREAKS

Everything cracks and breaks

Everything cracks and breaks

Everything gets lost eventually

Everything gets lost eventually

Songs whose words have been forgotten,

Cold potatoes left upon a plate

Spoons that have fallen behind the oven

Pencils too short to use, a garden path that's lost its gate

No cream tea at the village fete, a single sock that's got no mate.

Everything cracks and breaks

Everything cracks and breaks

Everything gets lost eventually

MOON SONG

There's someone I can see

Peeping out at me

A circle floating in an ink black sky

But then she does balloon

A silver macaroon

A bright white bauble rising wide awake

Sprinkling light like sugar on a cake

Moon, moon

I know now what you are

Fine friend amongst the stars

A friend who took me by surprise

A friend who comes in different shapes

Moon, moon

Sometimes you're just a trace

But then a friendly face

A friend who took me by surprise

A friend who comes in different shapes and size
